

Individual Reflection 3 – Andreas Magnusson

- 1) I want to continue learning state management with blocks in flutter. I also want to continue trying out different rules in an agile project, like being scrum master.
- 2) This week I have been updating the location functionality to the app. We made it possible to change the location by searching for places in a search bar. Then the user could see the weather, air quality and suggested running days from that place instead of their actual location. I also added a profile page, with the user information and a log out button and made it mandatory for the users to fill in their first and last name.
- 3) Did a more efficient job this week, managed to get more done. I learned more about how flutter works with blocks and states.
